

Michael Dell founded Dell Company in 1984 in Austin, Texas, with an unprecedented idea by selling computer systems directly to customers; it could deliver the most effective computing solutions to meet their needs.

Today Dell connects with more than 5.4 million customers every day on the phone, in person, on Dell.com and, increasingly, through social networking sites.

Dell make technology more accessible to people and organizations around the world. It ship more than 110,000 systems every day to customers in 180 countries that's more than one every second.
