

The numerical solution of the multi-particle Schrodinger equation describing atomic systems remains a challenging for computational physics. ITL scientists are in the forefront of this field with respect to extremely high-accuracy computation of non-relativistic eigenstates of few electron systems.

Institute/Organization: Information Technology Laboratory (ITL) , National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) , USA

Contact: James Sims. Email: james.sims@nist.gov

Status: Ongoing

Read more